The MPEd in the field of Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) is a dynamic program designed to help students develop the required competencies for becoming an effective English as a Second Language or English as a Foreign Language (ESL/EFL) teacher. The program will help students acquire innovative skills and language pedagogy, while at the same time enhancing their level of English proficiency.

Students will examine various factors and concepts related to the acquisition and learning of an additional language, including formal and informal learning, competence and performance and models of second language acquisition.
Why Western Education’s MPEd?

Real-world Focus
Designed for professionals who wish to advance their careers.

Specialized Fields
Build specific expertise while earning a recognized degree.

Global Partnerships
Collaborations with more than 500 partners in 23 countries.

Field of TESOL

This 1-year, onsite intensive program is designed for international language teachers who wish to:

- obtain a Master’s degree in the field of TESOL
- improve their teaching abilities
- understand curriculum development
- carry out research in the classroom
- enhance their ESL/EFL skills

Understand and navigate the complexity of TESOL

Demonstrate awareness of the scope and complexity of TESOL literature and practice, including the potential contributions of other interpretations, methods and disciplines.

Strengthen your TESOL communication skills

Build the ability to effectively communicate ideas, concepts, issues and arguments about TESOL using the most appropriate genres and modes.

Benefit from a single cohort learning model

In the cohort model of learning, small groups of students start and finish their degree together, which provides the opportunity to grow their professional connections and develop a sense of community.
